Green Careers

The screenshot shows the CareerOneStop website. At the top, the logo reads "careeronestop your source for career exploration, training & jobs" with a note "Sponsored by the U.S. Department of Labor. A proud partner of the americanjobcenter network." A search bar and a "Español" link are in the top right. A blue navigation bar contains links: "Explore Careers", "Find Training", "Job Search", "Find Local Help", "Toolkit", and "Resources For". Below this is a large image of a woman looking at a computer screen displaying medical scans. A "Green Careers" button is overlaid on the image. To the left of the main content is a sidebar with a "Green Careers" header and three links: "What Are Green Careers?", "Explore Green Careers", and "Find Education and Training". Below the sidebar is an "About This Info" section with text about the source of the information. The main content area has a heading "Thinking about a green career and wondering about your options?" followed by a paragraph about the section's purpose. It then lists three options with links: "Want an overview of three different types of green careers? Visit What Are Green Careers?", "Want to find details like skills, wages, and education needed for more than 200 green careers? Visit Explore Green Careers. You can begin exploring in 12 different career sectors.", and "Want to explore green careers based on the level of education or training required? Visit Find Education and Training. You'll be able to click through to find real training programs in your local area."
